One of the Accused Dynamiters Confesses

While McNamara was talking with Fredericks, Mrs. Ingersoll stood at the side of the room, apparently unobserved by McNamara, and gazed steadily at the accused man. Brain said that not a semblance of recognition passed between them and it is declared that McNamara did not know why he was taken before the district attorney.

Mrs. Ingersoll left the jail with Fredericks, who refused to reveal Mrs. Ingersoll's decision in the matter of identity. No one was permitted by the district attorney to see Mrs. Ingersoll.

John Harriman of Los Angeles and O. N. Hilton of Denver, the attorneys engaged to defend the accused men, were admitted to the jail. Harriman, leaving the jail to reach a telephone, made a short statement to the press to the effect that it was gas and gas only that caused the explosion in the Times building and that he and his assistants were prepared to prove it, regardless of public opinion. He announced that when they had completed their conference they would make a public statement as to their plans.

Shortly after noon, Attorney Hilton emerged from the jail, after a conference with the prisoners. He said McNamara absolutely denied, in the presence of witnesses, that he had made any confession whatever and that statements to that effect were unqualifiedly false.

McNamara was taken before the district attorney where at 11:30 he had been for two hours in the presence of a short hand reporter.

Hilton said he would not be surprised if McNamara had confessed to the district attorney but such confessions, he said, would be vitiated by the statement McNamara had made to him, and others in the jail, denying such confessions.

Arthur Veitch, a deputy district attorney, announced definitely today, in order to set aside conflicting reports, that McNamara is charged with dynamiting, and the charge against the McNamaras is murder. Even if J. J. McNamara were not in California at the time the Times' plant was blown up, the charge will be pressed against him and, according to the penal code, if it is found that he directed the crime as alleged, he will be punished as a principal.

McNamara's Statement.

John McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Bridge & Structural Iron Works association, gave his first authorized personal opinion of his position today. He sent a letter to the Associated Press by his attorney. The statement follows:

"To the brotherhood of organized labor in California and the United States:

"In this second attempt to crush and discredit the cause we represent, I realize fully the desperation of the enemies of labor arrayed against us, but I am of good heart, for it will fail.

"That I am innocent of any infraction of the law, in word or act, needs no emphasis from me, for the truth is mighty and will prevail right speedily, and for it I shall contentedly wait.

"I send to all brothers and friends of Union labor the word over my earnest and affectionate greetings, with the assurance that there is no villainy or conspiracy possible of which we are afraid.

"I am also confident that it is not asking too much of the public to suspend judgment in these matters until opportunity for a full and fair defense has been afforded. (Signed) J. J. McNamara."

McNamara's Denial.

McNamara because the center of interest today for the opposing attorneys as soon as the prisoners had their breakfast.

would not be surprised if they come forward with an alleged full confession that the Times plant was blown up by dynamite bombs.

"But," he added, "we have killed the effect of that."

After interviewing McNamara, Attorney Hilton saw James McNamara. The latter, he said, told him all about the visit Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll, the San Francisco boarding house keeper had paid him earlier in the day for the purpose of making positive her identification of him as J. B. Bryce, the dynamite conspirator.

If that was Mrs. Ingersoll," said McNamara, "I do not know her and never saw her in my life."

Hilton then summoned John McNamara into the conference room of the jail, and after writing the statement to the Associated Press, the accused union leader gave the attorney a message to send to his mother, who lives in Cummingsville, a suburb of Cincinnati.

"I am in good spirits and health and am comfortable," the message read. "There is nothing to worry about."

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—The arrival today, after a sensational journey in Irons from Indianapolis and Chicago, signals the beginning of what is expected to be a desperate struggle, upon the outcome of which depends not only the lives of the accused men, but also to some extent, the deep interests of organized labor in this country, notwithstanding which, to date absolutely no definite arrangements have been made to initiate their defense.

The alleged conspirators arrived at the jail this afternoon in automobiles, after running the gauntlet of two crushing crowds which in their eagerness to get a glimpse of the prisoners, overbore the efforts of more than a score of detectives and deputy sheriffs detailed to hold them back.

Nine-Mile Auto Trip.

The men were taken from the California limited train which had carried them from the East at Pasadena, and in the nine-mile trip to the county jail by automobile, speed laws were absolutely disregarded.

James McNamara and McNamara were taken from the train at the main station in Pasadena, and hustled into a motor car while John remained in his compartment until Raymond, a suburban station of Pasadena, was reached, where a second automobile was in waiting.

John Escapes Curious Crowd.

John escaped the curious throngs around the jail, but James and McNamara were rushed by a crowd so dense that for a time they were unable to reach the waiting motor car.

COLORED MAN IDENTIFIES O'HARA

Pointed toward the bench upon which O'Hara sat facing him.

"What about the short man, do you see him in this room?"

Rowse stated that he could not positively identify O'Hara as the short rober, but repeated that he was certain of O'Hara. He was asked to tell under what circumstances he saw O'Hara in Michigan and he related practically the same story of the meeting in the hotel office already told by Middleton.

In the cross-examination Rowse was asked if he had any conversation with O'Hara while in Michigan and stated that he had, but that he was not present when a conversation between the defendant and Sheriff Graham had taken place.

"What did O'Hara say at that time?"

"He asked, 'Who identified me?'"

"Was that all he said?"

"That is all I remember."

"Are you certain of his exact words in this question which you say he asked the sheriff?"

"I am," he said, "Who identified me?"

Rowse was submitted to a severe grilling on his supposed identification of O'Hara and O'Dell. He stated that he knew those men were not the bandits at the time he was called upon to identify them.

RELEASE AND DEPARTURE OF BOYD

The released man secured the cash bond which he had deposited and left the city last night for Salt Lake.

BIG SISTERS VISIT THE INDUSTRIAL

Salt Lake, April 27.—In continuing the preliminary work of organizing and securing all necessary information for the Big Sister movement, a committee of three, consisting of Miss Clara Colburne, secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Bird and Mrs. Julia Piken, visited the State Industrial school at Ogden Tuesday and made a personal examination of all the conditions.

Discussing the visit yesterday, Miss Colburne said:

"The morning was spent in going over the school with Judge E. G. Gowans, the superintendent, who is very enthusiastic over the proposition. Following this, a meeting was called of the girls and I delivered an address or rather a talk, taking for my subject, 'Service is the Test of Culture.' I attempted to encourage the young women and told them that even though they had fallen, yet there was plenty of opportunity to recuperate all they lost. That the real value of the woman in the world of today was measured according to the service which she rendered the human family."

"I had a personal talk with every girl," continued Miss Colburne, "and secured a history of their lives; wherein they had failed and what their ambitions were. This information will be given to the big sisters."

WET AND DRY WARE STARTS IN LOGAN

Logan, April 26.—It is reported on the best of authority here that the church organizations are to be used again in the liquor fight—this time in favor of prohibition, and it is declared that the order has gone forth to keep Logan dry. A couple of years ago every churchman here was shouting for prohibition, but when the Democratic state convention declared for state-wide prohibition there was a cessation of activity on the part of a good many Republicans, and the Democratic party here was snatched away from under here in great shape.

Now that there is no campaign, it is announced that the church authorities are getting ready to urge the people to vote for prohibition, and this fact is angering the Democrats hereabout, many of whom have openly declared that they will work for a wet town, the campaign is likely to be a live one. Both sides will be organized and a final effort on the part of the "wets" is expected. If they are defeated that will mean the end of the struggle for some years, the wise ones say.

tion of cement, for the reason that the carriers are alleged to need additional revenue, is the feature of a decision handed down today in the important Portland cement case.

Advances of half a cent to 5 cents a hundred pounds in rates on cement were proposed by the carriers in trans-Missouri territory, to become effective September 1, 1910, affecting a territory which produces approximately two-thirds of the Portland cement made in the United States.

The advances proposed were attacked by producers and shippers and the commission suspended the rate, first until November, 1910, and subsequently until July 1, 1911.

The points of destination to which the proposed rates apply cover a wide range of territory extending from Illinois and Tennessee on the east to the Rocky Mountain territory on the west.

In the opinion promulgated today, which was prepared by Commissioner McChord, some of the advances are sustained and many of them are disapproved. The commission did not accept as decisive the statement of the carriers that present cement rates are so low as to be unremunerative and that the commodities do not bear their just proportion of the burden of transportation.

Approval of the increase is given the proposed rates from Portland, Colorado, to all destinations from Kansas city territory and points in Kansas and Oklahoma to points in Texas, and from Bonner Springs and Yocemento, Kas., to various points in Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

"With the exceptions," the commissioner says, "the propriety of the new rates has not been shown. If the carriers do not withdraw the tariff before May 15th, an order will be issued to maintain existing rates for at least two years."

SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

Read Mrs. Herrick's Sworn Statement

State of New York County of Monroe: ROCHSTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my friends and which attracted the attention of many strangers. But as I grew older, I commenced to come out. When my hair was quite thin and gray, I was induced by many good reports to hear of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to try a bottle, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found my hair was fast coming back to its natural condition. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur until my hair was as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I began using Sage and Sulphur and my hair is in splendid condition.
